The appointment of Marriage Celebrants is under the direction of the Commonwealth Attorney-General's Department, Family Law Branch (Marriage and Inter-country Adoption Section). The reforms apply to Authorised Marriage Celebrants and to Non-aligned Religious Marriage Celebrants.

During the reforms that led to the new training for Celebrants, other elements also have impacted on the profession of Celebrancy. All existing Celebrants are required to undertake 5 hours annual ongoing professional development, and are subject to performance reviews.

During 2003-2012 the national number of celebrants increased by approximately 10,500. Whether you are a person who has not been near a classroom since high school or you are a highly qualified person, all students are cared for in the same personable manner and encouraged to ask questions and enjoy their learning experience.

Some students we have met over the years are worried that they may not pass the course of study. Vocational Education is not about getting 51% to get through the course, it is about graduating people who are competent in that particular profession. As we highly regard our own profession we will not graduate people until we believe that they can not only perform the job, but that they can do it well. In parts of the legal elements of the course students will be required to achieve highly as this is a very important function of the role of a marriage celebrant.

Should you need to be assessed for competency re-assessment is at no further cost to you. However the assessor reserves the right to only re-assess one assessment item up to 3 times.

Recognition is based on skills and knowledge. You are welcome to RPL the skills, knowledge and experience that you have to date, and then continue your RPL process once you have married the minimum number of couples.

If you are an aspiring celebrant and wish to seek RPL for some of your units.

You will be asked to have a conversation with the assessor who will assist you to plan this process.

If you have not completed celebrant training and are an authorised marriage celebrant

There is an opportunity for an experienced marriage celebrant to seek Recognition of Prior Learning (RPL). You should read the RPL Guide from our website, or have one sent to you.

How long will it take me to complete this course?

The Certificate IV in Celebrancy is a substantial qualification. The Queensland Department of Education and Training in their Transition Guide CHC08 V2.0 and V2.1 and the Victorian Purchasing Guide Version 2.0 look at the nominal hours it may take a student to complete the training. The average that they calculate for a thorough study of this certificate would be at a minimum 500-600 hours. These are notional hours and are given to Registered Training Organisations so that a more even value can be equated across all the different providers in Australia. The amount of hours that tally toward the 500-600 hours may vary from person to person depending on which elective units are chosen.

Each learner who enrolls in this course will have a different style and speed to their studies. Working on this course will vary for each person, it depends on a person's own abilities, own free time to study, previous experience that may be credited, and how much effort they personally wish to add to their experience. You should also consider that you may have competing priorities of work, family, and maintaining good health, during this study time.

For example: Course hours equal 550.

| Months to Complete | 6 months | 12 months |
|---|----------------------|----------------------|
| Hours of study required per week | | |
| Completing the course by distance education (approximate values) | 22-25 hours per week | 12-15 hours per week |
